

Clinical Education:

One of the ways the Law School puts your gift to use

Your gift to the Law School can be used to fund a variety of key needs, depending on your choice:

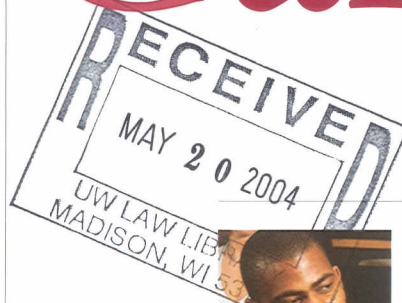

- Scholarships
- Student recruitment
- Faculty recruitment
- Moot court and mock trial programs
- Seed money for research and programs
- Small Legal Writing classes
- The small section program for first-year students

To schedule a conversation about your personal choice for giving back to UW Law, call Ann Flynn at (608) 263-2202, or e-mail ann.flynn@uwfoundation.wisc.edu.

Gargoyle

SPRING/SUMMER 2004
Volume 30, No. 1

In 1962, when the existing Law School was demolished to make way for a new building, Dean of the Law School George Young found and rescued a sandstone gargoyle from the rubble. This figure and its departed twin had sat on the roof of the 1893 building for almost seventy years. While one of the pair had perished in its fall, the second one had landed unscathed.

That rescued gargoyle, which is now permanently installed in the Law School's Atrium, gives its name to this magazine, representing the indomitable strength and spirit of our University of Wisconsin Law School and its many graduates.

For an illustrated history of the Law School's gargoyle, see www.law.wisc.edu/lore/gargoyle.htm.

6 Announcing Strategic Plan 2004

The Law School's Strategic Plan 2004 is now completed and ready to serve as a guide for the next five years. The Plan identifies seven major priorities that will help the school make critical choices and keep us in the top tier of the nation's public law schools.

24 Why Wisconsin?

They arrive from Michigan and California, Paris and Johannesburg. Why have our new young professors chosen the UW Law School, and what surprised them when they arrived in Madison?

30 A Conversation with Susan Steingass

Susan Steingass, director of the Law School's new Communication and Advocacy Program, has a big project on her hands: re-inventing Legal Writing as a reality-based and learning-by-doing program that draws its assignments from the work that lawyers really do.

Gargoyle is the alumni magazine of the University of Wisconsin Law School, 975 Bascom Mall, Madison WI 53706-1399, (608) 262-8554
