PROPOSAL FOR DIRECTED RESEARCH OR DIRECTED READING
Law School Rule 3.13

Directed reading and directed research are governed by Law School Rule 3.13. Note that no more than eight credits of directed reading and six credits of directed research can be applied to the 90 credits required for the J.D. degree. (Additionally, a single directed reading is limited to from one to three credits.) Letter grades are not authorized for directed research or directed reading; grading will be simply “satisfactory/unsatisfactory.”

Directed research will result in the production of a research paper (generally 10-15 pages per credit); a student’s directed reading will be tested by some form of written work. To register, find a faculty member who will agree to supervise your work, then complete this form, have the faculty member sign it, and return the form to Room 5110A.

After this form is filled out, signed, and returned to Room 5110A, a permission will be entered, a call number assigned and you will be emailed the call number. Then you enroll using this call number.
