Closing Thoughts: Where do We Go from Here?

1. How have discussions at this conference helped highlight the problems and opportunities of advancing economic equality and justice at this particular historical moment, given recent events – and what has been left out or needs more analysis? Some of the many events to consider include Katrina, the 2008 global economic recession, the emergence of the Tea Party and the Occupy Wall Street movements, organized labor efforts, anti-austerity protests, and recent national election.

2. As legal scholars what can we do to better understand, clarify and engage the structural inequality, class dynamics and /or the state of the political economy that we see?

3. How might ClassCrits as an organization aid in this effort? Should we continue to meet after our conference at Davis? If so, how and where?

a. Elect Steering Committee

b. Committees to plan future events:

Annual ClassCrits conference?

Meet at LSA, AALS, others?

Other meetings or events?

c. Other Committees/ Projects:

Publications
