

Valerie Mack is a public affairs professional at Elliott Management, one of the oldest fund managers of its kind under continuous management. As of July 1, 2019, Elliott manages approximately $38.2 billion in assets under management. The firm employs a staff of 470 people, including 166 investment professionals, in its New York headquarters and affiliated offices elsewhere in the United States, London, Hong Kong, and Tokyo. In her current role, she advises on strategic communications for investments around the globe. Prior to working in finance, she spent a decade working in politics and government as a communications advisor and opposition researcher. Her experience includes two presidential primary campaigns, a United States Senate Office, U.S. Senate campaigns in over 20 states, and the Office of the Governor of Massachusetts. During the 2016 campaign, she prepared her candidate for twelve nationally televised primary debates which resulted in the candidate being described as having “the most detailed and substantive performance.” In the U.S. Senate, she executed the rapid response for the 2013 immigration debate praised as a “campaign-style press operation” to correct the record on deliberately false information pushed by opponents to immigration reform. As a Senate staffer, she represented her member in overseas trips to Asia and Europe. Mack holds a BA cum laude from Northeastern University.
